Wisconsin Farmer Visits St. Albert

ST. ALBERT—Mr. Harold Ahlers of West Bend, Wisconsin, recently spent two days in the St. Albert district, visiting the Ahlers brothers and Bert Sumner. Harold is the fourth generation of Ahlers to raise Red Poll cattle on their Wisconsin farm.

Last February 5 they celebrated their 100th anniversary on the farm. It was Heinrich Ahlers, from Germany, who came to the U.S.A. in 1853, and homesteaded on this land. With him he brought seeds of Austrian pine, which he planted on his new land. His son, John R. Ahlers, later planted 8,000 more trees, and now there is a nice "forest". So much so, that the kitchen cabinets of the farm home are made of cherry wood and white oak taken from this "forest". This produces a beautiful twotone effect in natural color.

Harold has more than once shown his Red Poll herd on the Canadian circuit, including Edmonton.

Local Players Reach Fours In City Tourney

ST. ALBERT—Local players took part in the Edmonton and district tournament. The juniors made a very good showing. Shirley May, Mahenue and Hayden Roberts reached the fours in the main event.

A local tournament will be starting very soon now. This club accepted an invitation to the Glendale school in Jasper Place on Sunday afternoon. These city players will play a return engagement at St. Albert on Thursday, March 19.

Ice Carnival Proves Successful

ST. ALBERT—The St. Albert Ice Carnival, originally postponed from March 8, was held on Wednesday evening, March 11. There was a very satisfactory turnout, despite the short time notice as to the cold weather. The Lions were to thank their ladies who served the hot dogs and coffee.

Ann Ross, the Lions candidate, was crowned queen. The attendant was Lucille Morin, CYO candidate. Little Lorette Lamar also was in attendance. Neil John Ross was the ring-bearer.

Ten skaters from Glenora performed on the ice. There were racing on skates for boys and girls. The St. Albert Scout hockey team placed against the Indian Industrial School. Between acts, the girls and men displayed their prowess at broomball.

The Lions also wish to thank the St. Albert business men and all those who contributed so well to this event.

Friends To Fete Departing Couple

ST. ALBERT—A party in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Atkinson and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Atkinson, who are soon leaving the district, will be held in the Community Hall on Tuesday evening, March 24. Their many friends will really make this a truly evening.

Lions Club Combines With A.C.T. To Produce Outstanding Presentation

MORINVILLE — Saturday night, Morinville's Recreation Centre was packed when town and district folk took in the A.C.T. "Search for Talent" show. A full complement of budding artists were on hand to entertain, and to profit by the experience of performing before an audience.

A great deal of credit for the tremendous success of the show is due to the Lions Club of Morinville, who sponsored the show, and the efforts put forth by Mr. A. Reid, secretary of the Lions, Mr. J. I. Stevens, the president, Mayor Soetaert and Mr. Milroy are to be highly commended.

The Associated Canadian Travelers, who put these "Search for Talent" shows on in the various Northern Alberta centres were highly pleased with the response received in Morinville, and they appreciate the wonderful turn-out, both audience and participants.

Through these shows, many a crippled child, deserving of a chance, obtains it, for the Northern Alberta Crippled Children's fund benefits from these productions. Another very worthwhile feature — many talented artists are discovered and earn the opportunity to perform before large audiences.

It is the heartening reception such as was had in Morinville which makes the efforts of the organizers worthwhile and encourages future "Search for Talent" productions.

The list of contestants who appeared on the Morinville "Search for Talent" show, reads as follows:

- Verda Williams, Morinville, vocal solo.
- Yvonne and Aurelia Comeau, Riviere Qui Barre, vocal duet.
- Barbara Gill and Carol Harrington, Alameda, vocal duet.

Letter to the Editor

St. Albert, Alta.,
March 6, 1953.

Recently certain persons criticized the running etc. of the local rink this winter.

One question asked was where did the money go from the carnival last year.

Answer — It went to pay last year's operating expenses. In other words last year it was handed into the town office and put into town funds. Remember for the children who use the rink the cost would have to be close to $2 each per season to pay for operating expenses. Don't think that is so high. Believe curling fees are about that for winter. Course it is harder to pay $2 for a child than $1.50 for one self. After all your child is living off you. $1.50 per season or $5 a family does not pay expenses.

Next we have heard that the rink was not run as it should have been. One question first. What has been done by others?

The start of the season the boards were down, no rink building and no lights.

No work was started to correct this so Lions took a hand and made arrangements to build a temporary building. Charlie Horricks donated his money and time to build this with help of the Lions. Charlie is not of this community and of course is a Lion. They are grateful to be used for this winter only. We called for help to build this building, however no one came. Our numbers are few, however, we finally got the building done. We advertised by posters, and what have you, that we needed help. Lions Syl Bonnevillie, Bud LeClair, Guy Reboud, Charles Horricks, Dave Barry, Wes, and Geo. Klath and myself did most of the building with a little help from some of the other Lions and a few citizens. We did not have enough money to build a permanent building.

We found the wiring material on hand would not be satisfactory so we had to purchase over $10 worth of new equipment. Well we did this. Put in plumbing costing over $20. Got material from the hardware costing over $60. Paid the caretaker to do what he could while we tried to get lights. Apparently the wiring would not pass inspection as we were within a 1 1/2 mile radius of Edmonton and this meant a more rigid inspection and certain things to be complied with. However we are going to have the lights for the carnival.

One thing about the lights. Lions

Bud came down on several occasions to put them out but was there much help? Most of the Lions were working and could not spare the time. The boys of the senior hockey team asked us about lights. They said they would help. They were notified but when the time came to help there was not one member of the team that came. As a result this took us far into January before we finally got the lights on to what we considered to be satisfactory. With a few persons working a few hours each week with little help it makes it hard to get along.

The Lions donated $100 plus their labor toward the rink. Now they have put on a carnival again to raise more funds for the same purpose. All they ask is that what they have done, be made known to the public.

Cost of rink to date is $369, plus $2574 equals $2626.

Edmonton Airport Forges Ahead; Seen Key International Base

OTTAWA — If Calgary has any dreams about becoming the main global airport of the Canadian northwest, forget them! Edmonton is slowly — but surely — emerging as the favorite to play out this international role.

Tipping the scales in favor of the provincial capital at the expense of Calgary are future plans of two international airlines.

Edmonton's fate could also be decided by the success or failure of negotiations now going on in Washington between the U.S. and Denmark, Norway and Sweden. So far, the federal government has shown no inclination to favor one city over the other. They have no major expansion plans for the airports in either Calgary or Edmonton.

NO MENTION MADE

Earlier this month when Transport Minister Lionel Chevrier gave the Commons a brief survey on what the government's immediate plans were for expansion of Canada's major airports, he mentioned neither Calgary or Edmonton.

And a spokesman for his department underlined Chevrier's omission of the two centres by stating that little or no major airport expansion work will be done in the immediate future in either of these two cities.

He said there would be some work done at the Calgary airport this year, but of a minor nature. Included were plans for completion of a taxi strip, drainage and installation of a high-intensity lighting system.

AWAIT NEGOTIATIONS

As for Edmonton's air terminus, the government's plan to spend no money there this fiscal year, he added. One Transport Department source hinted that plans for these two centres were being held up pending the Washington negotiations and future plans of these two international airlines.

The two airlines concerned are British Overseas Airways Corporation, and Scandinavian Airlines System.

STOPS PLANNED

BOAC is now considering inauguration of a new flight from London to Tokyo via Canada, with stops at both Montreal and Edmonton.

The British line already has rights to fly to Canada in its trans-Atlantic run stopping at Montreal. It would need an extension of its rights to make the run west with landings at Edmonton.

SAS wants the right to be able to land at Edmonton in its plans to fly from the U.S. Pacific coast to Europe via north pole. It has already made one trial flight over this run and it was successful. Denmark, Norway and Sweden have now begun formal negotiations with the United States for new air agreements permitting SAS, their joint airline, to land at American west coast cities.

If the U.S. agrees, then Canada will be asked to agree to the Edmonton landing rights. Actually Canada has already got the Scandinavian proposal "under consideration."

CANADA TO FOLLOW

Sources here said that if the Americans say yes to SAS, it is almost certain that Canada will give the airline the green light for its polar flights.

With these two international airlines planning to use Edmonton as the possibility that at least one American airline might also try the polar route to Europe via Edmonton, they said the Provincial Capital had a clear edge over Calgary on any big airport expansion plans in the northwest.

Soil Conditioners
The recent introduction of a group of chemicals called "soil conditioners" has aroused a great deal of interest in the agricultural industry. Since the introduction of "Krilium" — late in 1951 — a large number of "soil conditioners" have appeared on the market.

What Are They? Soil conditioners are complex synthetic chemicals which act chemically to improve the structure of soils, particularly silt and clay soils. This structural-improvement effect is remarkably stable and may last through several growing seasons. It is brought about by the chemical acting on the individual clay and silt particles, binding them together to form crumbs of varying size. The conditioners work on all soils, on soils which are in good physical condition, for example, or on sandy soils. When properly applied and mixed with silt and clay soils, however, they bring about a marked and rapid improvement in soil aggregation.

Not Fertilizers None of the new soil conditioners are fertilizers. They do not add plant food to the soil, nor are they a substitute for organic matter. Soil conditioners influence plant growth only indirectly, that is, through the changes brought about in soil structure. It is true, of course, that good structure and soil fertility go hand in hand, but "soil conditioners" are not fertilizers.

Beneficial Uses The present price of soil conditioners, at over one dollar a pound, limits their usefulness in general agriculture. Extensive tests have shown, however, that they may be immediately useful in the management of horticultural soils — on new lawn surfaces prior to seeding; for nursery plantings; and for the improvement of lower beds and garden beds. The discovery and development of soil conditioners is certainly of importance to prairie farmers. These chemicals will make an important place in our agriculture particularly when they become cheap enough for use on the structurally-poor field soils to increase crop production.

Alerta Aids Young Nurses

EDMONTON — Health Minister Cross announced Wednesday a plan designed to encourage more girls to enter the nursing profession.

Dr. Cross gave details while speaking in the budget debate in the legislature.

If the legislature approves the plan, it will go into effect April 1, the minister said.

At present it costs a girl anywhere from $50 to $100 for text books, uniform and other expenses when she starts. Under the plan, if the hospital admits the girl without these customary charges, the government will pay, the school $300 on the nurse's graduation.

Lucky Girls Go On Coronation Tour

TORONTO — Three Alberta girls were told last week they will go to the Coronation and afterwards tour Great Britain this summer for almost a month as guests of W. Garfield Weston.

They form part of a group of 50 girls representing all parts of Canada who were selected by schools to take the trip sponsored by the Canadian-born international industrialist as a means of cultivating closer Commonwealth relationships.

The girls were chosen in cooperation with the Canadian Education Association and provincial education departments. Every province, as well as the Yukon and Northwest Territories, is represented.

The group will sail for England, May 22, on the Empress of France and will spend nearly a month in England, Wales, Scotland, and Ireland touring famous cities and towns. In addition, the Canadian girls will spend several days in London at the Coronation with a similar group of 50 English girls who will be coming to Canada as Mr. Weston's guests.

Average age of the girls is 17. Selection standards take into consideration not only a candidate's scholastic record, but also leadership qualities and ability to absorb experiences while on the tour and later pass them on to others.

Alberta members of the tour are: Clarice Evans, Parkland; Denise Ryan, Stettler; Penny Wright, Edmonton.

Youngster Smiles Off Loss of Legs, Determined To Become Goalie "I'll skate again," was the courageous resolution a 10-year-old boy made two years ago after doctors had fitted him with artificial limbs. Bobby Hutchinson of East York, Ont., lost both legs beneath the wheels of a freight train, but with faith and determination he is living the life of any normal sports-loving youngster. The chucky lad learned how to walk again on his new legs, then slowly and painfully took up the sports he had loved before the accident. He now lists among his athletic accomplishments: softball, bowling, soccer and swimming. With the coming of winter, Bobby faced his toughest assignment — hockey. His dad flooded the backyard, and equipped with specially fitted boots and skates, the lad gradually gained balance and assurance on the ice. He hopes to try out as a goalie with an East York Pee-Wee team.

Uranium Fever Hits North Bay, Ont.

Uranium fever has gripped North Bay, Ontario, after discoveries of the radioactive metals, columbium and tantalum were made on an island in Lake Nipissing. Salesmen and storekeepers are donning parkas and staking claims all around North Bay, and even within the limits of the town. Even the business section shows presence of the radioactive metal when examined by the Geiger counter. LETTERS TO LOUISA

Dear Louisa:

Do you think it is right for a woman to go out at night and leave her husband to take care of the children?

I married a girl from a nearby city. We live a few miles in the country, but several times each week she goes into town to musicals, bridge parties or for any other excuse she can find. We have a servant so she is not tied down in the day and she goes in every time she is invited anywhere.

She says that she goes alone because I won't go with her. Don't you think she is carrying this too far?

John W.

Answer:

Well, John, yours is an unusual question. Such letters generally come from wives whose husbands are gadding around and leaving the care of the children to them.

My idea is that marriage is a partnership where each party goes fifty-fifty. Now everybody needs some recreation and if wives and husbands enjoy the same kind, so much the better, but if not, a compromise must be made.

Instead of refusing to go out at all with your wife, why not agree to take one or two nights off a week and go in to a movie or party or whatever you care for together. If that doesn't suit, she might take a regular night off, and you do likewise. It seems to me that that should be sufficient if she has every day in which she is free to do as she pleases.

Louisa.

I think she is very unwise to follow such a course if she cares anything about having a successful married life.

Dear Louisa:

I am seventeen years old and my parents treat me like I might be a baby. They won't let me have dates and won't trust me out of their sight with a boy.

Do you think, under the circumstances, it would be all right to sneak out and meet my boy friends?

Julia.

Answer:

No, Julia, I wouldn't sneak out if I were you. It will cheapen you in the eyes of the boy and take away the protection afforded by your home and parents.

I'll admit you are in a tough spot. Your parents are being very foolish, indeed. The finest protection a girl can have is to be taught high ideals and then have the perfect trust of her parents. Girls, who are accustomed to associating with boys all of their lives, are much more capable of judging the true from the false than are those who are mistakenly forbidden to go with them until they are grown. It is natural for boys and girls to like each other and want to be with one another. Try to make your father and mother see your point of view. You are old enough to know right from wrong and you should not be deprived of the pleasures of youth.

Louisa.

CO-OP INSURANCE REPORT SHOWS GOOD PROGRESS

EDMONTON—R. H. Milliken of Regina, Sask., Wednesday explained how a $50,000 loan was parlayed into a $42,000,000 business in less than six years.

In his report to the 44th annual congress of the Co-Operative Union of Canada, Milliken traced the growth of the Co-Operative Life Insurance company from its start in 1947 on a $50,000 loan from Co-Ops in Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. He said that the firm had $41,950,000 insurance in force at Dec. 30, 1952, an increase of $6,250,000 since the end of 1951, while investments earned an average of 4.4 per cent last year.

"The company has repaid the original loans and is now carrying on the business of life insurance in all Canadian provinces except Quebec, where negotiations are being carried on with the hope of entering that province soon," Milliken said.

He also reported on the formation last year of the Co-Operative Fire and Casualty company.

"The great bulk of the insurance so far has come from the Maritimes," he said. "In the first six months of the company's operations $101,000 was received in fire insurance premiums and auto insurance premiums totalled about $90,000."

"Fire losses for that six-month period were 1.6 per cent of the premiums received, while auto losses were more than 44 per cent," he said.

HOUSE RULES FLOGGING TO REMAIN IN CANADA

OTTAWA—A House of Commons committee has turned down a CCF suggestion to eliminate flogging from the criminal code. Liberal, Progressive Conservative and Social Credit members say flogging is a major deterrent to crimes of violence and should be retained in Canada.

Cattle Embargo Lifted.

The United States lifted its embargo against Canadian cattle on March 2 but has placed quotas on the number which may be shipped to that country. Effective April 1, yearly limits to be admitted at a duty rate of 1½ cents a lb. are 200,000 head of calves weighing under 200 lbs. and 400,000 head of cattle weighing 700 lbs. or more. Cattle between these weights and those exported in excess of these numbers are subject to a duty of 2½ cents a lb. The customs duty on fresh beef and veal entering the U.S. is three cents a pound.

With prices in the United States running at about the same level as those here in Canada it is not likely that many cattle will move across the line in the near future and the quotas are not likely to have any effect on shipments to that country.

The United States market was closed for Canadian cattle on February 25 last year when an outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease was announced in Saskatchewan.

Hard Experiences

Hard places help us to know the resources of God. It is only under difficult circumstances that we know His all-sufficiency.

Israel was told, first, to stand still, and next, to behold the salvation of the Lord. When they ceased from their acting, God revealed His power. So He tells that the reason He led them through the wilderness, and exposed them to a situation where there were not natural supplies of any kind, was to teach that He was adequate for every need, and that "man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

God can become real to us only up to the measure of our actual needs, and every difficult situation is just a vessel for Him to fill, an occasion for Him to show Himself in His infinite wisdom, power, and grace.

The Apostle Paul tells us that he was exposed to every sort of difficulty in order that the power of Christ might rest upon him according to his needs. Therefore he welcomed each new situation as another vessel for God to fill and another occasion for Him to say, "My grace is sufficient for thee."

Farm Income Taxes

(From the Calgary Albertan)

Objection has been raised in the House of Commons to the way income tax collectors "hound" the farmers. One Saskatchewan Liberal MP says that by persecuting the farmers in this way, the tax people are making socialists faster than he can make Liberals.

It is a known fact that there are many loopholes in the income tax assessment of farmers. Those who produce wheat have no chance to evade taxation because their income can be easily checked. But many others can and do take advantage of the tax payable. Call it cheating or dishonesty difficulty of proving their income and their or smart business or what you will, but it is still tax evasion. It is most rampant in Quebec and Ontario and other places where farming is diversified.

In Quebec very little attempt is made to improve the tax collection from farmers. In some other provinces some effort is made. But on the prairies where it is possible to make some kind of a check, the authorities are doing that. And why shouldn't they? If the tax is payable it is up to tax authorities to see that it is paid. If that requires an army of inspectors, so what? If collecting the tax equitably and fully is too big a job or too dangerous politically, then the tax ought to be dropped and something else substituted. Perhaps farmers ought to pay a production tax instead. But that, too, would be difficult to enforce. The wage-earner, though, can't evade a cent of tax liability.

Canadian Bank Forced Out Of Business In Chicago

By T. W. PUE

An interested reader of the Edmonton Sun is a man who has never yet set eyes on any part of Alberta. My uncle, Alex Puc, a resident of Chicago, Ill., receives the paper each week and makes the strange confession that he likes it and finds it interesting.

Uncle Alex is an Irishman by birth (not so noticeable by temperament) and in his younger days lived and worked in Manitoba. Twenty-eight years ago he moved with his family to Chicago and one of the first things he did there was open a bank account at the Chicago branch of the Bank of Montreal.

But at the end of 1952 this bank had to close its doors, due to a state law that prohibits branch banking. Sometimes it is darned difficult to understand the American mentality. They lose millions of dollars because small, independent banks go broke, and stoutly refuse to allow the type of banking that has meant stability and security of funds to Canadians for generations.

A CHICAGO INSTITUTION

The Bank of Montreal, Canada's first bank, was established in Chicago in 1862. A writer in a Chicago newspaper, Hal Thompson says that after 90 years this famous Chicago Institution, which is as old as the Chicago Board of Trade, withdrew and closed up rather than face the possibility of a series of suits attacking its legality in the face of state laws prohibiting branch banking.

But, Mr. Thompson says, the Board of Trade never raised a finger in protest. In spite of the fact that the Bank of Montreal was the best friend any Chicago business ever had. He says it was one of the board's early benefactors.

It supplied large amounts of capital which greatly aided in the development of the grain trade there. Also it assisted struggling traders to purchase memberships on the exchange "on time."

BANK AIDED TRADERS

We know of one instance where one of these purchasers was having a difficult time in meeting the interest payments on the loan he obtained from the bank for his membership, and the bank generously agreed to waive the interest. Unofficially we have been advised that there were other instances in which the bank has appeared in the role of a benefactor to members of the board.

Because of the "Good Shepherd" role which the bank adopted one would think that the board and its large membership would rally to the assistance of the bank in its hour of trouble. But such as not been the case.

Board of Trade officials queried about their attitude toward the closed bank replied that it would be against the policy of the exchange to issue any statement on the subject. Carl Bostrom, president of the board, declined to comment. Some board members, however, have expressed regret over the departure of the bank from Chicago.

Edwin A. Hoerner of Harris, Upham & Co., said: "The contribution of the closed bank to the city's industry and especially to that branch of it concerned with agriculture has been a noteworthy one. To permit its closure because of a possible technical conflict with certain of our banking laws is regrettable, the injustice of which cries for immediate rectification."

George Koch, veteran member, commented as follows: "It appears that the recent action by certain legal interests which culminated in the closing of the bank was something that was not justified in view of the bank's long standing in the state and the very important part it played in the development of midwest business and agriculture."

COULD HAVE CLOSED BANK

No doubt the Board of Trade could help get the Bank of Montreal back in Chicago if they would get busy. But isn't it a fine thing that a free business institution can be put out of business in a so-called free country?

Note and Comment

Of the 21.8 million bushels of wheat in store in Fort William-Port Arthur terminals on January 26th, 17 million was of the top 4 grades. Last year at the same time 31.2 million bushels were in store, of which only 6.7 million was of the top grades.

Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen.—Hebrews, XI: 1.

NOTHING BUT THE TRUTH by Russ Arnold

Voice of the People

HEADED FOR WHERE?

Is it back to the Bible or Matthew 13:17? Matthew 5th chapter says: Blessed are they which hunger and thirst after righteousness, for they shall be filled. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God. Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. If Mr. Manning fostering strife or causing division and ill feeling?

Rom. 14:5: One man esteemeth one day above another; another esteemeth every day alike. Let every man be fully persuaded in his own mind. This is the Apostle Paul's admonition. Has Mr. Manning read 1st Cor. 4:11-12, Acts 20:31-35, 2nd Cor. 12:9? According to the Bible Paul wrought with his own hands and often went hungry in order to preach the Gospel of the Kingdom. He did not receive $12,000 a year salary together with other interests, nor did he touch private profit or private enterprise. No, he preached for the love of his fellow man, often going hungry according to his own statements. See Acts 13:47.

Mr. Manning's abuse over the radio where he cannot be contradicted, of honest, sincere Christian men, some of whom have spent as many years studying the Scripture as he is old, would be laughable were it not so serious from a Biblical as well as a historical standpoint. Some one has said prophecy is history foretold, and history alone will prove or disprove the truth of this statement. History has proven the truth of prophecy. I wonder if Mr. Manning has read the 25th Chap. of Matthew, especially verses 31-46? Or Rom. 14:4 or Rom. 12:19? Vengeance (judgment) is mine: I will repay, thus saith the Lord. It might be well to include Rom. 14:18.

Sincere, humble Christian men and women are wrought up over this soap-box Bible teaching, but they realize that the rulers of this present world (corruption, crime, chaos) are not to be the rulers of the world to come, when the restitution of all things takes place. Acts 3:21. In Mark 3:11, speaking to professing Christians, Jesus I say unto you, it shall be more tolerable for Sodom and Gomorrah in the day of judgment than for that city. Perhaps the most charitable thing that could be said of Mr. Manning is, Father forgive him for he knows not what he does, Luke 23:34.

Let any misunderstanding me, let me quote Gal. 4:16: Am I therefore become your enemy because I tell you the truth

THE LIGHTER SIDE

With A Rockel To Bring Rain
A Scotchman in planning a new house left the roof off one room.

A friend asked the reason for this. "Oh, that's the shower," replied the Scot.

Wrong Advice
"If it hadn't been for your unfounded advice I wouldn't have lost every dollar I had."
"You can't say that," returned his broker. "I told you to use your own judgment."
"Well, hang it, that's what I did."

Scotch Magic
"Here's a ticket for the conjuring show, Maggie!"
"That's vera, kind of ye, Donald."
"Ay—and when he comes to that trick where he takes a teaspoon of flour and one egg, and mak's 20 omelettes, watch yer close."

Pointed Farewell
"How did you get that scratch on your cheek?"
"When I said good-bye to the chief at the office he had a pen behind his ear."

Qualification
Applicant for Position—Yes, sir, I just graduated from college.
Executive—Fine! Ever do any discus throwing? We tried a pole vaulter, a broad jumper and a star half-back in our auditing department but they didn't make good.

Intangible Assets
"Hallo, Tom, off for a vacation?"
"No, I've just come back."
"Feel any change?"
"Not a blame cent."

The Bride's Dilemma
Jim Justwed (viewing dining table)—Why have you got all these cruet on—one, two, three—six of 'em?
Wife—Aunt Matilda is coming to dinner and I can't remember which one was her wedding present.

Misconstrued
After much pleading Hayes had managed to "touch" his friend for a loan.
When it was safely in his possession, he said:
"You are very kind to lend me this pound. I feel that I can never repay you."
His friend stared hard at him.
"Why the dickens didn't you say that at first?" he exclaimed.

The Point of View
Poetic Rover (to farmer): "And does this glorious setting sun mean nothing to you?"
Farmer (mopping his brow): "I'll say it does. It means I can eventually unhitch the horses and go home."

Eminently Suitable
Fifth-Avenue Shopper: "What a frightful price you ask for that hat!"
Salesgirl: "I know, Madam, but it's a frightful hat."

BARLEY CONTEST PRIZES PRESENTED AT BANQUET

W. J. Keith of Sylvan Lake received a $200 prize as winner of the Alberta provincial section of the National Barley Contest, at a banquet tendered winning competitors by the Alberta brewers in the Palliser Hotel. The contest is sponsored by the National Barley Institute.

Close to 300 barley growers, some of them former winners, and brewery executives attended the dinner in the Crystal Room. Mr. Keith also led the Southern Alberta region winners with his OAC barley, and for this was awarded an additional $100.

Nick Synnorum of Athabasca, who took first prize in the Northern Region competition, placed second in the provincial section. Third place was gained by R. A. Chiswell (Arclan Farms), Lacombe.

Other winners in the Northern Region were: Pete Burdick, Jr., of Vimy; N. G. Hilly, of Legal; Robert Montpetit, of Legal; Albert de Champlain of Legal; Albert Dubois, Vimy; W. J. Van Loewenstein of Clyde.

In the Southern Region, winners in addition to Mr. Keith, were: R. A. Chiswell of Arclan Farms, Lacombe; L. R. Reynolds, of Olney; A. P. Robinson, W. V. Johnson and F. F. Johnson, all of Red Deer; and F. Radford, of Bowden.

As chairman, T. C. Dancer, general manager of Sicks' Breweries, welcomed the guests, particularly those who had participated in the contest in former years.

The evolution of the beer business or "What has happened to the keg?" was light-heartedly traced by guest speaker, E. J. Munson, president of the Calgary Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Munson was introduced in an equally light-hearted manner by J. R. Cross, president of Calgary Brewing and Malting Co.

Prof. Thomas J. Harrison of Winnipeg, head of the National Barley Institute, outlined the Institute's recent research work and its efforts to persuade farmers to introduce better varieties of barley.
